
Long Term Care Emergency Preparedness Report

Results from the 2011 Survey of Missouri's
Licensed LTC Facilities

Division of Regulation and Licensure
Section for Long Term Care Regulation

In light of the many emergency events that occurred in the past several of years and the H1N1 influenza pandemic, the Section for Long-term Care Regulation (SLCR) conducted its fourth annual survey of all licensed long-term care homes in Missouri. Each home was asked to provide information concerning the development and contents of their emergency plans. SLCR received 512 anonymous responses and would like to thank all those facilities who replied. Basic response rate information by level of care is as follows:

- Skilled Nursing Facilities (SNF) – 258 = 52% response rate
- Intermediate Care Facilities (ICF) – 17 = 57% response rate
- Assisted Living Facilities (ALF) – 95 = 52% response rate
- Residential Care Facilities (RCF) – 142 = 33% response rate

The following recommendations are offered to provide facilities with focus areas on which to concentrate their efforts in reviewing their emergency plans and improving emergency response capabilities:

- Emergency plans should be reviewed on a regular, systematic basis to ensure the plan contains up-to-date information regarding facility operations, organizational structure, and contact information for local emergency resources, staff, and residents' families.
- All facilities should have a battery-powered weather alert radio, or some other weather notification system, in order to be aware of developing weather situations.
- Facilities should provide basic emergency plan information to residents' families such as emergency contact information for the facility and key staff, as well as plans for evacuation should sheltering-in-place not be possible. This information should include specifics of how residents will be evacuated and where they will be taken, such as another nearby LTC home or community center, to aid in reconnecting residents with concerned family members.
- Homes should involve local emergency planners as emergency plans are reviewed and revised. More coordination between the various entities within a community assists with resource allocation and overall response during emergency situations.
- Homes should contact their water and electric utility providers to make sure they are on the utility's priority service restoration list should a loss of service occur.
- Homes should develop plans for staff to accompany, and provide care to, residents who have to be relocated.

SLCR hopes these recommendations will assist in emergency planning efforts. SLCR will continue to provide information and resources as we all work to ensure that Missouri's long term care homes are prepared for any type of emergency.

SLCR welcomes any questions concerning the survey or emergency planning in general at (573) 522-8318.

The pages which follow provide specific response rates for each question from the 2011 survey by level of care. The final column shows the average response rate for all levels of care for each question. Also shown is the change in response rate as compared to the 2010 survey for those questions which were the same on both surveys.

Please indicate the number of beds for which your facility is licensed? (Question not asked previously)
